Water. An adequate supply has been maintained in spite of the increase required for the Housing Estate.

Sewerage. The system, though old, has worked fairly satisfactorily. Some tendency to flooding in the west End has been overcome by the laying of new sewers.

Food. All premises were inspected regularly. 13 samples of ice-cream were tested during the season. There were no outbreaks of food poisoning..

I attach the annual report of your Sanitary Inspector.

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant.

E. J. Coombe.

Medical Officer of Health.

Sanitary Inspector's Office,
Beaumaris.
28th August, 1950.

Dr. H. B. Coombe,
Medical Officer of Health,
Beaumaris.

Sir,

I beg to submit the following report as Sanitary Inspector for the Borough of Beaumaris, for the year ended 31st December, 1949:-

Water Supply. During the year it was found that the water supply was generally adequate to meet the demand. Precautionary measures were taken during the months of July to September, to curtail the supply during the night, but no unnecessary hardship was entailed on users.

Five bacteriological samples of water were taken during the year. Two prior to filtration and three following purification. The latter three samples were of the Ministry of Health Classification 1.

Sewerage and Drainage. There has been a tendency to flooding of the basements at towns and during excessive storms; but on the Council laying a sixty yard section of new sewer at the rear of Bryn Lane and Mill Lane, so as to link up two sewers in the respective streets, the nuisance at towns and has been abated.

The sewerage system of the town is being considerably strained since the new housing scheme has been connected to it, and the time has now come when considerable modernisation of the present system must be considered, so as to effectively deal with future developments of the town in the direction of Maes Dyfryd.

Housing. No new houses were built during the year, although the demand for accommodation is still very high. Two old cottages in New Street were repaired under civil building licences, and are now occupied by elderly folk.

The Council deem it still unwise to embark on a further scheme of building, until the water position becomes more stabilised, as the town is still awaiting to be linked up with the County Council Scheme.

Nuisances. Sixty-two complaints were received during the year, respecting miscellaneous complaints under the Public Health Act. One statutory notice was served and complied with; and informal action only was necessary to abate all other nuisances.

Shops. Inspection of shops was carried out periodically, and one multiple store, on informal action, provided separate sanitary accommodation for both sexes of employees, together with adequate washing facilities, and meal room accommodation.

Twenty new covered bins were provided by cafes, restaurants, and shops for the proper storage of trade refuse.

Food Inspection. Regular inspections were carried out of all food premises and bakeries, and all necessary steps were taken by the occupiers to maintain a high standard of cleanliness in the storage and handling of food stuffs.

There is one registered manufacturer of ice-cream, and four registered ice-cream vendors. Thirteen samples of ice-cream were submitted to the Public Health Laboratory, and as the season progressed, the provisional grading of the ice-cream improved.

Meat inspection is regularly carried out at the Abattoir.
